

Right on the highway and where the South Fork road crosses the Provo River is the Chalet Cafe, a long-time landmark in the canyon built in about 1937 by Grover Purvance and John Carter. Just across the highway from the Chalet is the River Bend Trailer Park. Down canyon less than a km from the Chalet is the small recreation site now called Frazier Park.

About one km up-canyon or to the east of the Chalet Cafe, is where the North Fork Creek enters Provo Canyon. This is where you turn off Highway 189 onto the Alpine Scenic Loop Road toward Sundance and Aspen Grove. At that junction is another small, mostly summer home-type community called Wildwood.

This settlement began with a small ranch owned by George I. Taylor, which was purchased by a group of 14 citizens who formed what was known as Wildwood Resort Company in June of 1906. The Y. M. Offret's gas station at Wildwood in 1941 (Bertha McKean Offret foto).